From time to time, it is in the best interest of the University to appoint Adjunct or Visiting Faculty. While such appointments give individuals official status as a faculty member of the University, they do not provide any employment status or employment benefits. All Adjunct or Visiting Faculty appointments shall be made by the President. Presidential appointments may be made for a set duration in time, normally not less than one academic year. However, the President shall retain the right to extend an appointment indefinitely or an Adjunct Faculty/Visiting Faculty may request, in writing, extension faculty status of the type conferred, beyond their appointment date. Along with a formal letter requesting that Adjunct/Visiting Faculty status be continued, a current curriculum vitae must also be submitted by the individual requesting to be retained as faculty.

An individual's faculty status will be printed the next available University bulletin, as appropriate.
