POLICY STATEMENT

It is the policy of National University of Health Sciences (NUHS) that athletic activity and/or participation in athletic events by students is voluntary and is not a requirement for graduation from this institution.

The University assumes no liability for injury to any student or person who practices or participates in any sports or athletic contest or exhibition, on or off campus. Participation is at the sole discretion of the individual.

RELATED INFORMATION

Under the University's general liability policy, there is an exclusion for athletic participants in intramural and intermural sports. Therefore, injuries sustained as a result of participation in an athletic event are excluded from coverage. University employees must be aware of this exclusion and that they may not commit the University to any responsibility.

It would be the participant's responsibility to file a health insurance claim under his/her own policy for any athletic injury incurred.

A detailed report of any injury incurred on-campus should be made on the University's Accident Report Form, which is available in the Department of Human Resources.
